SUN BEAMS

by WALTER M. BARRETT

Although some of the resorts at Lake Tahoe are planning to discontinue activities for the season this and next week, the season there is by no means over. As a matter of fact, Tahoe in the fall offers Tahoe in its most enchanting mood and vacationists who visit the lake during the next few weeks, or even months, will learn that the fall season is perhaps even more refreshing and enjoyable than during the summer, if that can be possible. Each year more and more people are finding fall at Tahoe ideal and resort owners who promote a later season will not be unwise. For that matter, the winters here are hard to beat if one appreciates and enjoys the exhilarating snappy outdoors and winter sports.

In another column of the Sierra Sun today will be found a letter from State Senator Jerry Seawell, calling attention to the fact that the state highway commissioners will meet in the near future to outline a highway program for the next biennium. The legislators are powerless to do anything about the roads unless recommendations are made, so if local groups or organizations contemplate or desire road improvements, they should act at once, Seawell warns.

It was most discouraging that throughout the state only about half those who enjoy the fast vanishing right of voting as they wish took advantage of the privilege. Truckee was typical of this apathy. The right of sufferage is a hard won birthright of American citizens and is one that should not be taken lightly. The next election will be held November 5. Remember the date and by all means vote.

The deer hunting season opens on September 16 and hunters are cleaning up their guns and preparing to invade the haunts of the majestic buck. Many hunters, especially those on their first trip are inclined to get excited and shoot first then see if it was a buck they shot. Caution is one thing which should be practiced most diligently in hunting. With hundreds of men scattered through the woods, there is always a chance that a moving object may not be a deer, so be sure before you shoot. Better to lose the best buck in the mountains than to wound a fellow hunter.

Let us bear in mind the urgent need for winter sports in Truckee this year and when the petition now being circulated is presented for your consideration, remember that if we are to keep in the winter sports business, a lot of cooperation will be necessary.

Three Filed In Sanitary Board Race This Year

Two Incumbents Seek Jobs At Polls Here On Sept. 16

MATTOS IS CANDIDATE

Little Interest Manifest In Election Of Board Members

Three candidates have filed for the Truckee Sanitary District election to be held Monday, September 16 at the justice court building. They are G. E. Hofmann and George Pace, incumbent directors and Joe Mattos, who will seek the position now held by H. I. Snider.

Three members of the board are to be elected, Clair P. Goode and F. W. Gaiennie being the hold-over members.

Snider will not be a candidate because of provisions of the Hatch Act, which prohibit a government employe holding another public job and because he wishes to devote his full time to development of the natural resources, being forest ranger in this district.

The polls will be open during the afternoon of the election from 1 to 6 p. m., Hofmann, clerk of the board, announced.

BEARS PROVE BIG PROBLEM IN FOOD SUPPLY FOR CREW

Oscar Evans, forest service timber survey expert, says that he did not come down to the Tahoe country to hunt bear, but is afraid he will have to make a formal declaration of war against Bruin yet.

Evans is camped at French Meadow with his crew of 10 young foresters cruising timber in the Auburn Working Circle of the Tahoe National Forest and says that it is a case of eternal vigilance being the price of satisfied appetites, for the bears have all kinds of ingenious ways of slipping through the guard and foraging. Posting a watchman hasn't solved the problem, since it is necessary for Evans to select one of his working crew for the job.

Tramping over the mountains induces sound sleep and it is physically impossible for the watchman to be on duty all night and work all day.

The bears watch their opportunity and one night operated within six feet of the sleeping "watchman."

Forest Fire Is Controlled After Area Is Swept

Suppression Crew Keeps Fire From Spreading Despite High Wind

A "sleeper" lightning fire, five miles northwest of Truckee, that gave promise of becoming large, due to the strong winds last Monday, was confined to one and a half acres of small trees and brush by the combined efforts of the local forest service crew and equipment, local men from Truckee and CCC crews from Hobart Mills. The CCC boys from Boca were called but released when they arrived as the fire was under control.

Many spot fires that occurred east of Euer Valley road were held from spreading by local recruited help and the new 200-gallon tank pumper that is now mounted on the forest service one and a half ton stake-side truck used by local suppression crews. This new unit was also instumental in stopping the spread of the fire that recently threatened residences south of the Truckee river in town.

Monday's fire makes a total of seven fires caused by lightning storms on August 23 and 24. These fires are sometimes hard to find in the tree tops or among decayed wood on the ground where their start is followed by hail or rain as was the case last month, H. I. Snider, forest ranger said.

A JUST VICTORY

(Re-print from San Francico Call-Bulletin)

It is gratifying that the Board of Tax Appeals has decided that Mr. A. P. Giannini is not liable for $260,000 income taxes on $1,350,000 donated by Bancitaly Corporation to the University of California for an agricultural foundation given in Mr. Giannini's honor and to bear his name.

In the flush year, 1927, Bancitaly under Mr. Giannini's management, had an immense profit and it sought to pay him compensation based upon a percentage of the profits.

Mr. Giannini was willing to take only a portion of the compensaton offered by the corporation and declined to take the balance offered which amounted to $1,350,000.

All of the Giannini institutions have always been closely associated with agriculture in the state and interested in its promotion, betterment and development.

Bancitaly, therefore, concluded to donate $1,350,000 to the University of California for an agricultural foundation, including a building to house the foundation. These are called Giannini Hall and Giannini Foundation.

The plans for the hall and founation involved an expenditure of $1,500,000, and Mr. Giannini contributed $150,000 out of his own funds to make up the required amount.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue thought that Mr. Giannini was chargable with income tax on $1,350,000, and accordingly laid a tax of $260,000.

He appealed to the Board of Tax Appeals which held that the money never came to Mr. Giannini, that he had declined to receive it, that it was no part of his income, that all the books of Bancitaly and the University of California corroborated his statements, and exonerated him from the tax.

The board's decision, obviously, is just.

Public spirited citizens who unselfishly contribute to the general welfare should be encouraged in their generosity rather than penalized.

ADMISSION DAY

Yes, California will be ninety years young next Monday —as a state. But as a place fabled in legend nd saught for by the fortune hunters of several nations, her history goes back centuries. The land of El Dorado is no such newcomer as the years of her statehood suggest. Her coastline was being explored by the white-sailed caravels of Cabrillo four centuries ago; 28 years before the first colonists arrived at Jamestown a California harbor gave shelter to the storm-wracked ships of Sir Francis Drake's expedition. And before California won statehood on September 9, 1850, before the gold rush stampede lauched her first big boom era, its wealth and its fame had already led four nations to unfurl their flags over California.

In fme and in wealth, in resources, in scenic splendor, and in the vision and spirit that a vanished Western frontier has left stamped on its people of today, California has reached no ebb tide. A glamorous queen rich in memories and years, California can view a birthday cake of of ninety candles, confident the best of her years are yet to come.

ASSOCIATION RECOMMENDATIONS MADE TO FISH COMMISSIONERS

Meeting with officials of the State fish and bame commission last week, a committee from the Lake-Tahoe Sierra Association urged several steps be taken by the commission to increase the number of trout in the district and to protect those planted each year.

Highlights in the recommendation included:

Clean debris out of Truckee river and larger streams.

Construct rearing ponds.

Plant only rainbows in the Lake Tahoe region and eastern brook in the back lakes.

Provide more wardens.

Provide food for small fry for a few weeks after planting.

Render a report to the association annually of all fish taken from Tahoe for planting and all planted in the district.

The full report of the recommendations follows:

1.—Cleaning out sloughs, creeks and channels at the south end of lake to afford access for small fish to and from the grassy swampland in that area.

2.—Joint action between the Nevada and California State Fish Commissions to clean out the Truckee river of debris between Pyramid Lake and Lake Tahoe, installation of proper fish ladders in brush dam near Indian Reservation at Wadsworth. Investigate facilities at the dam at Tahoe Cit yto ascertain if fish ladders are necessary.

3.—Clean out debris in the larger streams, such as Blackwood Creek, McKinney Creek, Meeks Bay Creek, Eagle Creek, General Creek and the Upper Truckee River. These streams run the year round and mouths of such streams should be cleaned out also. The traps in the Truckee river, that is, the Upper Truckee river, to be left thee for experimental purpose by the Fish and Game Commission.

4.—Fish and Game Commission to construct rearing ponds in suitable locations, the commission to provide proper food and care of the fish bereared therein, and only release the fish when they have grown to at least three inches or more. It is recommended that the rearing ponds be constructed of concrete.

5.—Investigate the feasability and advisability of planting wild grass in the shallow portions of the water along the lake shore and at the mouths of the creeks to afford feeding grounds and protection for the small fish.

6.—It is further recommended that the Fish and Game Commission continue to plant only Rainbow Trout in the lake and tributary streams, and continue to plant Eastern Brook trout in the back lakes.

7.—The Fish and Game Commission to appoint more wardens to patrol the creeks tribuary to Lake Tahoe, these game wardens to be appointed and deputized from the inhabitants at Lake Tahoe, such wardens to act in a similar capacity as deputy sheriffs, who serve without pay.

8.—The Fish and Game Commission to provide food in the tributaries to feed the small fish. This would only be hequired for about a month after the fish were planted. In former years many of the spawning fish died in the streams after spawning, the decayed matter having been the source of food for the small fish. That condition does not exist today and as a consequence the streams are practically barren of food.

9.—The Fish and Game Commission to furnish the Lake Tahoe-Sierra Association with a report as to how many small fry are sent from the Lake Tahoe hatcheries to outside arears, and how many trout are planted in Lake Tahoe each callender year.

10.—The Association further recommends further investigation by the Fish and Game Commission relative to procuring additional water supply at the Tahoe hatcheries wtih a view to increase rearing pond facilities.

TAHOE NAT'L FOREST RECEIVES $19,300 IN '40

Receipts from income of the 18 national forests in the California Region totalled $627,936 net for the past fiscal year ending June 30, the U. S. Forest service reported in its financial statement.

Tahoe National Forest receipts were $19,300 and El Dorado National Forest realized $47,573.

Regional Forester S. B. Show declared that 25 per cent of this amount would be alloted by the treasury department to the states of California and Nevada for distribution to county school and road funds. Counties containing national forest land will get amounts proportionate to their yield of revenue from the forest.

An additional 10 per cent will be apportioned to the national forests for the development and maintenance of forest roads and trails.

Near half the receipts came from timber sales. Grazing of sheep and cattle yielded almost $150,000 and miscellaneous special use permits, rental of summer home lots and water power brought in over $180,000.

Continual Daily Supply

THERE IS RECORDED in Exodus a most remarkable manifestation of daily supply (Exodus 16:4, 15): "Then said the Lord unto Moses, Behold, I will rain bread from heaven for you; and the people shall go out and gather a certain rate every day, that I may prove them, whether they will walk in my law, or no. . . . And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, It is manna: for they wist not what it was. And Moses said unto them, This is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat."

What is termed social security engages much time and thought today; particularly is this so among those who place their entire dependence upon material means. Apparent conditions of insecurity, lack, or poverty are prevalent among many classes of people, because men have not yet generally learned that the source of security, supply—of all good—is Mind, God, not matter.

Ways and means have been sought to secure for humanity some sort of daily supply. Mainly these efforts have been along material lines. . . .

Looking to matter as the source of supply, mankind is often disappointed and perplexed. . . .

When one turns to God for help in time of need, as did Moses, one turns to the ultimate source of all good. Jesus taught absolute reliance upon God. . . .

God's law of ever-available supply knows no past, and no future; it is operative now and forever. Scientifically to understand this fact frees one from anxious thought about tomorrow, and gives one a clear sense that all good, all supply, all health—the fullness of harmony—are now. In "Unity of Good," Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 41), "The sweet and sacred sense of the permanence of man's unity with his Maker can illumine our present being with a continual presence and power of good, opening wide the portal from death into Life; and when this Life shall appear 'we shall be like Him,' and we shall go to the Father, not through death, but through Life; not through error, but through Truth." . . .

The continuity of good is the spiritual fact of which we can become conscious here and now. Since the source of all good is infinite Spirit, good itself is spiritual and infinite, to be realized in proportion to the individual's understanding of spiritual realities.

The continual daily supply of good flowing from divine Love to each one knows no limitation, no cessation, no interference, and no obstruction to its clear expression. It includes and embodies the full fruition of hope, understanding, confidence, and expectancy of good.

The individual discernment of this truth is requisite to its attainment or demonstration. St. Paul recognized this fact when he said in his second letter to the Corinthians (9:8), "God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work" . . .

One's continual daily supply of good comes naturally and spontaneously, as one places his entire dependence upon divine Love. It is not subject to material conditions, neither is it in any way limited or restricted. It comes, as did the manna in the wilderness, through the operation of the law of infinite good, through which also the loaves and fishes were multiplied. This ever-present, continuous supply is the divinely natural manifestation of God's loving care for His children, and is exemplified in daily experience, proving conclusively that active faith combines with right activity of thought, deed, and purpose, in the unfolding of the good which God has abundantly prepared for all His children.

He strongly advised the pupils to See America First before embarking for foreign shores. Short descriptions of European and Asiatic as well as African countries followed, culminating in a talk on the Hawiaan Islands which included a question and answer period.

If It's Heavily Advertised
It HAS to be GOOD

OUR BRAND of democracy was won for us, and is being held for us, by men who chose their own careers, owned big farms, built big factories, and did what selling was necessary to keep those farms and factories busy.

One of the biggest aids in mass selling is mass advertising. In the long run, it "polices" itself.

Advertising of poor products always fails. Only a first rate product, fairly priced, can stand the dazzling glare of national advertising. When you think of the heavily advertised soups, soaps, breakfast foods, mechanical refrigerators, automobiles, silverware, radios — you are thinking of the aristocrats among commercial articles.

JOHNSON PROVES TO BE UNBEATABLE IN U. S. SENATE RACE

By JOHN W. DUNLAP
United Press Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 5.— (UP)— The political atmosphere was cleared of many uncertainties when the final votes of the primary election were tabulated.

Two salient results were obvious. Senator Hiram Johnson is unbeatable in California. Governor Olson failed in his purge of the legislature.

The ramarkable success story of the veteran Johnson has few equals in California history. With the exception of his unsuccessful campaign for the vice president of the Theodore Roosevelt ticket, Johnson has not been defeated for a public office since elected governor of California in 1910.

By his overwhelming victory in the primary, Johnson's election in November is a mere formality. That situation leads to speculation whether he will become active in the presidential campaign, in view of the cordial bid for support he received from the Republican presidential nominee, Wendell Willkie.

Nothing to Worry About

Most office holders shy away from entangling alliances for rear of alienating voters, but Johnson has nothing to worry about until 1946, when it is likely he will drop out of politics at the 80-year mark. He has been at odds with the White House in recent years and undoubtedly will not forget the remark of President Roosevelt that he no longer could be considered a true liberal or progressive.

The Johnson vote probably is more a tribute to the man, rather than endorsement of his policies on isolation and national defense. His opposition could not be classed as formidable and the magic of the Johnson name in the polling booth has been demonstrated previously. He won four nominations in 1934 and confined his 1940 campaign to three radio addresses from Washington.

Olson Loses Aides

In Governor Olson's case ,it appears that he lost ground in both senate and assembly, instead of putting over his 'purge' of unfriendly lawmakers. With 20 seats at stake in the state senate, the Republicans picked up two extra members, with the 14 Olson-backed candidates winning only two posts outright and getting into four runoffs.

The senate ratio during 1939-40 was 22 Republicans and 18 Democrats, with the latter ranks dropping to 14 through resignations and gubernatorial appointments. In addition, not all the Democrats were supporting the Olson program. With 26 seats apparently safe already, the Republicans stand to win a few more in November, really putting Olson behind the eight-ball in the upper house.

The November election will decide quite a few assembly contests but the strong showing of the opposition presages a repetition in 1941 of the anti-Olson majority of the past two years.

One of 10 Purge Victims Lose

Out of the 10 'purge victims' designated by Olson only Chester Gannon of Sacramento lost his race for sure, with absentee ballots likely to decide the fate of Seth Millington of Butte county and Clint Fulcher of Modoc county.

Incumbents of both parties, on the whole, either won both nominations in the primary r went into the finals in November. It is a rule of politics that the man in office is hard to dislodge, no matter what his party affiliation, and the Olson endorsements had little success.

The same situation was true in the congressional race, where 10 incumbents were reelected and the nine others won their party nominations

No Lame Duck Session

After the smoke cleared away, Senator Jerrold Seawell, president pro-tem of the state senate, declared it was unlikely the legislature would be called for a lame duck session in September to provide more funds for unemployment relief. He said administration claims before the election that relief money would run out in September was a smoke screen.

If the special session is not held, the lawmakers still must return at their own expense early in December Unless the relief situation is very acute, it is likely the outgoing legislature will pass the buck to the new body coming into office in January.

Being a state legislator has become a real headache in these hectic times of relief, unemployment and crises, particularly when the salary is only $100 a month.

The Man At The Keyhole

by OPERATIVE WB

The Willkie Volunteers, determined to maintain their "amateur standing" have limited their budget in California, for all purpose, to $20,000—which means that the boys are really amateurs, not pretenders. But what they lack in cash they make up in enthusiasm. And the "regular" Republican organization will have to step lively to be in at the finish. It's a different kin dof campaign!

Creditors of the 1939 World's Fair on Treasure Island who refused to bet on this year's show —and backed out, with 15 cents on the dollar—are sick about it now. The 1940 Expositon is paying off—75 cents for every dollar put up by its backers.

..Hiram W. Johnson, who scored one of his most notable victories of his 30-year career at the August primary (despite President Roosevelt's opposition)' is the big question mark on the presidential campaign in California. What will Hiram do? Will he stump against the man who took after him? Nobody knows but Hiram. But a lot of worried politicos are wondering.

SEAWELL ASKS FOR DESIRES OF LOCAL VOTERS ON ROADS

Calling attention to the fact that the California Highway Commission will meet soon to consider highway projects in the various counties of the state, State Senator Jerrold Seawell has written to the editor of the Sun so that his constituents may convey to him their road problems.

The letter follows:

Dear Mr. Barrett:

Within the very near future the California Highway Commission will be considering recommendations for road jrojects in the various counties of California. These projects will consist of new construction, re-aligning present highways, and various other minor road problems.

I would appreciate hearing from various organizations in my district that are interested in state highway problems, regarding improvements they would desire to be made in the highway system of this district, which consists of the counties of Placer, Nevada and Sierra.

If the Highway Commission does not recommend such projects to the legislature, money will not be appropriated for the same, as that must be included in the state budget of 1941, governing roads and highways.

It is my suggestion that the projects to be submitted be well studied and that accompanying data be furnished to the Highway Commission that would substantiate the inclusion of such projects in the highway system. If this is not done, and not presented in the Highway Commission on or before the budget is completed, it will be beyond the control of your legislative represenatives to make the change when the Legislature convenes. In my opinion, time is the essence, and all proposed projects should be immediately submitted to the Highway Commission.

I am calling this to your attention that you may convey this information to the people of this district, through the medium of your valuable paper.

Sincerely yours,
Jerrold L. Seawell.
